RED AND GRAY TEAM MAY UPSET WINNING STREAK OF TANNERS

An up-and-coming young English team has a chance to stage the greatest upset of the 1944 season today by knocking off the highly-favored Peabody Tanners, who come to Manning Bowl with a record of five victories in a row and a share of the Class A leadership.

English has a chance, because English is now an aggressive, fighting team with plenty of spirit and speed. Moreover, English itself has a winning streak to protect. The Red and Gray has won its last two games in a row, the first time in three years that victory has come in successive weeks. English was beaten by Peabody, 20 to 0, in 1943.

After a slow start, new Coach Nick Morris finally has his team rolling and the boys might even do to Peabody what Holy Cross did to a heavily-favored Boston College team one fine Saturday afternoon a couple of years ago when the Crusaders upset all the dope and buried B. C. under an avalanche of touchdowns.

"Don't sell English short" has been the watchword around Lynn the past few days by those who have seen Coach Morris' eleven of mostly juniors and sophomores improve by leaps and bounds as they get a few games under their belts.

Far from conceding anything to Peabody, despite the great record of the visitors, English plans to shoot the works in the hopes of achieving a victory which would crown Coach Morris' first season with glorious success.

Nobody expects English to win, and for that reason English may well play better than anybody anticipates and may even come out on top. The two teams are not so far apart in weight and ability that English can't give Peabody plenty of serious trouble before the day is over.

Piling up 43 points in the last two games, English has a set of backs who have finally come into their own and may prove a match for the more lustrous Peabody ball-carriers.

Bobby Whelan, 175-pound triple-threat, is as fast and as shifty as anyone Peabody has. If he breaks into the clear, he may run for a touchdown.

Bobby Bolger, 150-pound fullback, has developed fast since he was installed on the first team this year after being the sophomore find of 1943. In spite of a broken wrist which has not yet mended completely, Bolger has become a fine line plunger, a good broken field runner and a real swift with the ball. He is also a good blocker and a dandy tackler.

Little Larry McManus, though he weighs only 130, is every inch a good football player who can run like a deer and can pass, block and tackle.

Capt. Dick Littlefield at quarterback, though not a ball-carrier, is a good blocker, a good forward-pass receiver, and a smooth ball-handler on the increasingly-intricate plays which Coach Morris has given his team.

These four backs, working together, have started clicking in the last two games when Whelan, Bolger and McManus have each scored a touchdown in each game. If the same three lads can be shaken loose for scores tonight, English may hand Coach Bill Seeglit's boys an unexpected setback.

The English line is making immense strides with each game. Marty Smith, 154, sophomore end, and Dick Gannon, 160, a senior, who holds down the other flank, are fast getting down the field and are fine tacklers. They also play a big role in the team's offense and are steadily getting better.

Dick Kavanagh, 160, another sophomore, is catching on to his tackle duties in a manner which indicates he will be a truly great lineman before he graduates. Pilak Melakian, 175-pound senior, who is one of the few veterans on the team, has turned in steady performances at the other tackle post.

A couple of light but aggressive juniors are now holding down regular guard berths. They are Bob Jacovitz, 147, and Lloyd Jules, 144. Jules alternates with Vincent DeGrande, who played a fine game against Lawrence last week. Jules plays offensive and DeGrande plays defensive and it's possible that the latter, a 174-pound sophomore, may win the job regularly if his offensive play improves.

Joe Penny, 160-pound sophomore, is currently holding down the important center position and performing creditably.

Against this aggregation of light and inexperienced sophomores and juniors, with a sprinkling of seniors, Peabody fields a team of all veterans, some of whom have had two and three years of experience as regulars.

Tony Kravchuk, Tanner quarterback, has been seeing frequent service since his freshman year, and is now performing the signal-calling duties as a regular for the third year in a row. Kravchuk, though comparatively slow on his feet, is very shifty when carrying the ball. He is a good blocker, an accurate forward-passer and a great defensive man.

Capt. Dick Keon, 160-pound halfback, is also in his fourth year of service. As a freshman, he got lots of game experience. This is his third year as a backfield regular.

Buddy Roche, 160, is another senior playing his third year in a row at halfback. Jack Connelly, 155, is a junior fullback playing his second year as a regular. Thus Seeglit has an all-veteran backfield of Kravchuk, Keon, Roche and Connelly which has been working as a unit for two full seasons and has benefitted greatly from experience. All four are great blockers and extremely dangerous ball-carriers who are apt to break away for a touchdown at any moment.

It's the same story in the line, veterans all the way from end to end. Jim McDonald, 180 and Chet Dudzisz, 160, both seniors, have seen plenty of service as wingmen. The two great Peabody tackles have had their names in Peabody lineups ever since the 1941 season. They are Capt. Henry Pelletier, 195, and Jack Berger, 207, the latter also a place-kicking specialist. Ernie St. Paul, 185, a senior, and Bob McHugh, 168, a junior, were reserves two years ago and alternate regulars in 1943 who are starters this year. Art Adamopoulos, 180-pound senior center, is the only Peabody regular with comparatively little experience. He worked his way up from last year's second team.

Behind this veteran team of nine seniors and two juniors, Seeglit has several reserves who also have plenty of experience. For backs, he has Bobby Katzman, 150-pound senior, who has been fighting for a regular berth for four years; Bobby O'Connor, a fleet, 150-pound halfback who earned his spurs as a sophomore flash last fall and has done very well when he has played this season; Eddie Sena, a 155-pound junior who is in his third year of battling for the quarterback berth. In the line, there are some hefty substitutes who have been gaining experience while Peabody has been rolling up big scores in its first five games.

Red and Gray vs. Tanners

So far this season, Peabody hasn't failed to score at least 20 points against every opponent and could have rolled up three or four times that many against some of the clubs which have been trounced by the middle of the third quarter so badly that Seeglitz has withdrawn his first team to give the subs a chance to play.

If English keeps Peabody from scoring 20 points, it will accomplish something no other team has yet been able to do in 1944. If English wins, it will have achieved a miracle. But here's the Peabody record, just to refresh the memory. Peabody licked Marblehead, 21 to 0; Revere, 21 to 0; Lowell, 33 to 7; Classical, 22 to 0 and Beverly, 27 to 0. That's a total of 124 points in five games to seven for the combined opposition.

On the other hand, English has scored 49 points against 55 for its combined opposition. English dropped three in a row, to Chelsea, 13 to 0; to Lowell, 14 to 6 and to Salem, 8 to 0, before it won a pair, beating Beverly, 23 to 13 and Lawrence, 20 to 7.
